Forecast for Saturday 30 Dec 2023

Weather: Mostly dry but cold with some clear spells through the early hours, a few light snow flurries in the far north. A cold bright start, but high cloud thickening and lowering from the south through the morning. Persistent snow and severe summit gales reaching Knoydart late morning, all ranges by mid-afternoon. Snow often heavy after dusk, especially across Caithness hills, but turning to rain below 700-800m. Mostly dry from late evening, some clearing skies in the west.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 70% in the morning. 30% in the afternoon.

Low cloud and visibility: Very good visibility in the morning with the main cloud base well above the summits. Some patchy cloud above 800m across Caithness and Easter Ross hills. Cloud lowering to 400m as snow arrives, although may occasionally lift to around 700m in the west. Near zero visibility in blizzards on the hills.

Met Office Aberdeen Meteorologist's View

Extremely challenging conditions on the hills with near zero visibility, heavy snow and severe summit gales making any progress very difficult, especially at higher levels. Note, freezing levels around 400m higher across the far north early afternoon.

Forecast for Sunday 31 Dec 2023

Weather: Mostly dry, although showers in the far south across Knoydart, most frequent during the early hours and morning. Eastern hills likely to be rather cloudy at times, best sunny spells across the northwest. Little change in the evening, with the northwest having the best chance of clear summits by midnight.

Maximum wind: Generally southeast 5-10 gusting 15 mph, perhaps 20-25 mph at times on the higher summits, occasionally becoming variable.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 60-80%, best chance in the northwest

Low cloud and visibility: Visibility mostly good or very good, with many hills cloud free. Some patchy cloud above 900m at times, most likely across the Cuillin and the southwest, perhaps also over the Caithness and Easter Ross hills.

Temperature: Glens: Plus 2 or 3 Celsius.
At 800m: Minus 1 Celsius.
Freezing level: 700-800m.
